

BREWARRINA ABORIGINAL HEALTH SERVICE (BAHSL)

BAHSL has opened its doors to provide Primary Health care services to members of the Brewarrina community and surrounding areas. This has been made possible through WAMS accepting an invitation from OATSIH within the Department of Health and Ageing, to auspice the Health Service, and to commence the training and management program that will transfer administrative skills to the organisation.

BAHSL have contracted from Ochre Health a General Practitioner clinic held every Friday for half a day.

BAHSL has a visiting Doctor for Chronic Diseases every Thursday.

Visiting services are a Counsellor, Podiatrist, Dietician, Sexual Health Nurse, D&A Counsellor and Diabetic Educator. WAMS staff are supporting personnel at BAHSL in the delivery of Primary Health Care Services and Health Promotion activities within the community.

Brewarrina Aboriginal Health Service Limited (BAHSL) have their own website: www.bahsl.com.au or can be contacted on (02) 6839 2150.

providing Primary Health Care

WAMS is a Primary Health Care Service aimed at providing health care to the local communities.

WAMS services the communities of Walgett, Brewarrina, Collarenebri, Goodooga, Pilliga and outlying areas according to funding guidelines.

WAMS regularly conducts Open Days to exhibit the services and programs to the community. The local schools and community members are invited to “walk through” the premises or to attend any health promotion functions to receive a sample bag of goodies of WAMS products.

Staff participate in events conducted by other local agencies, and arrange health promotion activities which are promoted nationally, eg Heart Health, Cancer Awareness, Men’s Health, International Women’s Day.
